I applaud the 25-year effort of the Palestine Children's Relief Fund (PCRF) to provide urgent medical and humanitarian care to thousands of children throughout the Middle East, including those from Lebanon, Iraq, Syria, and Palestine.

Gaza's continued siege has reduced much of its population to poverty. Many children there are deprived of basic needs and suffer from inadequate access to proper medical care. PCRF's Lending Little Hearts a Hand Campaign in the Gaza Strip aims to address some of these issues by providing vital clinical care to Palestinian children with pediatric cancer, in addition to building sustainable surgical capacity locally. PCRF's public pediatric cancer facility will be the first of its kind in Gaza.

PCRF's Lending Little Hearts a Hand Campaign deserves your support.

Sincerely,
