ANNUAL REPORT

YOUR CHILDREN. YOUR WORLD.

Childhood in Crisis

Dear Friend of PCRF,

Some years are defined by what was lost. For PCRF and the supporters who stood beside children throughout 2025, this year was also defined by what was preserved: the opportunity for children to survive, heal, recover, and look toward the future.

The children you'll meet in this report—Salam, Walid, Mariam, Rahaf, and Mohammad—represent thousands of children whose lives were changed by your compassion. Their stories remind us that behind every statistic is a child whose future became a little more possible because someone chose to care.

> "The year 2025 was defined by what we refused to relinquish: childhood itself."

A humanitarian catastrophe

In times of crisis, children are always among the most vulnerable—and they often suffer the most. This was painfully evident in Gaza, where the humanitarian crisis continued throughout the year despite the fragile ceasefire, and in the West Bank, where conditions remain largely underreported. Indeed, this humanitarian crisis extends beyond Palestine, affecting children and families across neighboring countries as well.

Tragically, far too many children have lost their lives. Those who survive face the daily realities of growing up amid conflict—becoming orphaned, injured, maimed, malnourished, and repeatedly displaced. Many lack access to life's most basic necessities, while living with uncertainty and fear about what tomorrow may bring.

Our largest-ever response

With more than three decades of local expertise and a global network of volunteer health professionals and dedicated supporters, PCRF is uniquely positioned to respond. Thanks to you, we mounted the largest humanitarian response in our organization's history. Your support enabled us to mobilize resources, adapt to rapidly changing conditions, and expand our efforts to save and sustain precious lives.

Throughout 2025, PCRF provided food, clean water, medical treatment, psychosocial support, and other essential humanitarian assistance to help children survive. We cared for children suffering from acute malnutrition and those left orphaned and alone. We brought healthcare directly to communities through mobile medical services, and when specialized treatment was unavailable locally, we evacuated children abroad to receive the care they desperately needed. We also continued investing in healthcare infrastructure by restoring medical facilities, sometimes after they had been damaged by repeated attacks.

Leading change for children
While responding to today's urgent needs, PCRF also recognizes that many of the challenges facing children extend far beyond any single emergency. We are investing in stronger healthcare systems, building local capacity, and developing sustainable, long-term solutions that will improve children's health for generations to come.

This work is already underway. Through strategic partnerships and an integrated approach to healthcare, we are strengthening the delivery and effectiveness of pediatric medical care. We look forward to sharing our progress with you in the months and years ahead.

Gratitude, and a call for continued support
Because of you, more children received the care, protection, and support they needed to survive, heal, and look toward the future.

But thousands more children are still waiting.

With your continued partnership, PCRF can reach even more children whose need for care—and whose opportunity to live with dignity and hope—has never been greater.

Thank you, once again, for standing with the children of Palestine and for everything you do to support PCRF.

Their futures—and their childhoods—depend on all of us.

بكل الامتنان والتضامن والأمل،
(In gratitude, solidarity, and hope,)

Your Children. Your World.

Palestine Children's Relief Fund (PCRF) is a leading child health nonprofit, independent of any political or religious affiliation, dedicated to improving the health and well-being of children in Gaza, the West Bank, and neighboring countries—where childhood itself is being targeted.

With more than three decades of proven regional expertise and a worldwide network of committed volunteer healthcare professionals and supporters, we provide high-quality healthcare and humanitarian aid to children facing serious illness, injury, and the impacts of prolonged crisis. We also strengthen local health systems by deploying global medical missions to work hand in hand with local medical staff, through our PCRF-pioneered Treatment Abroad Program (TAP), and by continuing to build healthcare infrastructure to improve children's access to quality care today and for generations to come.

Since October 2023, we have been engaged in our most extensive humanitarian relief operation, delivering nearly 1.7 million instances of support, in 2025 alone.

Together, we're saving lives — achieving health for our children, and bringing hope for our world.

YOUR CHILDREN. YOUR WORLD.

2025: The Power of Your Compassion

In 2025, PCRF teams remained alongside children and families in Palestine and surrounding countries, adapting to constantly changing circumstances and responding to what they needed most. The care we provided was only made possible by the compassion, trust, and generosity of supporters like you.

Throughout the year, that meant delivering lifesaving humanitarian and medical support in areas facing prolonged crisis, including food, clean water, newborn care, hygiene kits, medications, emergency infrastructure rehabilitation, and mental health support. International volunteer medical missions brought specialized, long-awaited care to children who had limited or no access to it locally, while direct surgical interventions and one-time medical assistance helped children receive the timely care they needed. Monthly medical care, along with the ongoing specialized cancer and cardiac treatments, continued to support children with chronic conditions and special needs. And despite being limited over the past year, our Treatment Abroad Program gave dozens of injured and ill children from Gaza access to medical care unavailable in their homeland. Monthly support for orphaned children was also expanded to reach more children, helping provide greater stability amid the deepening crisis.

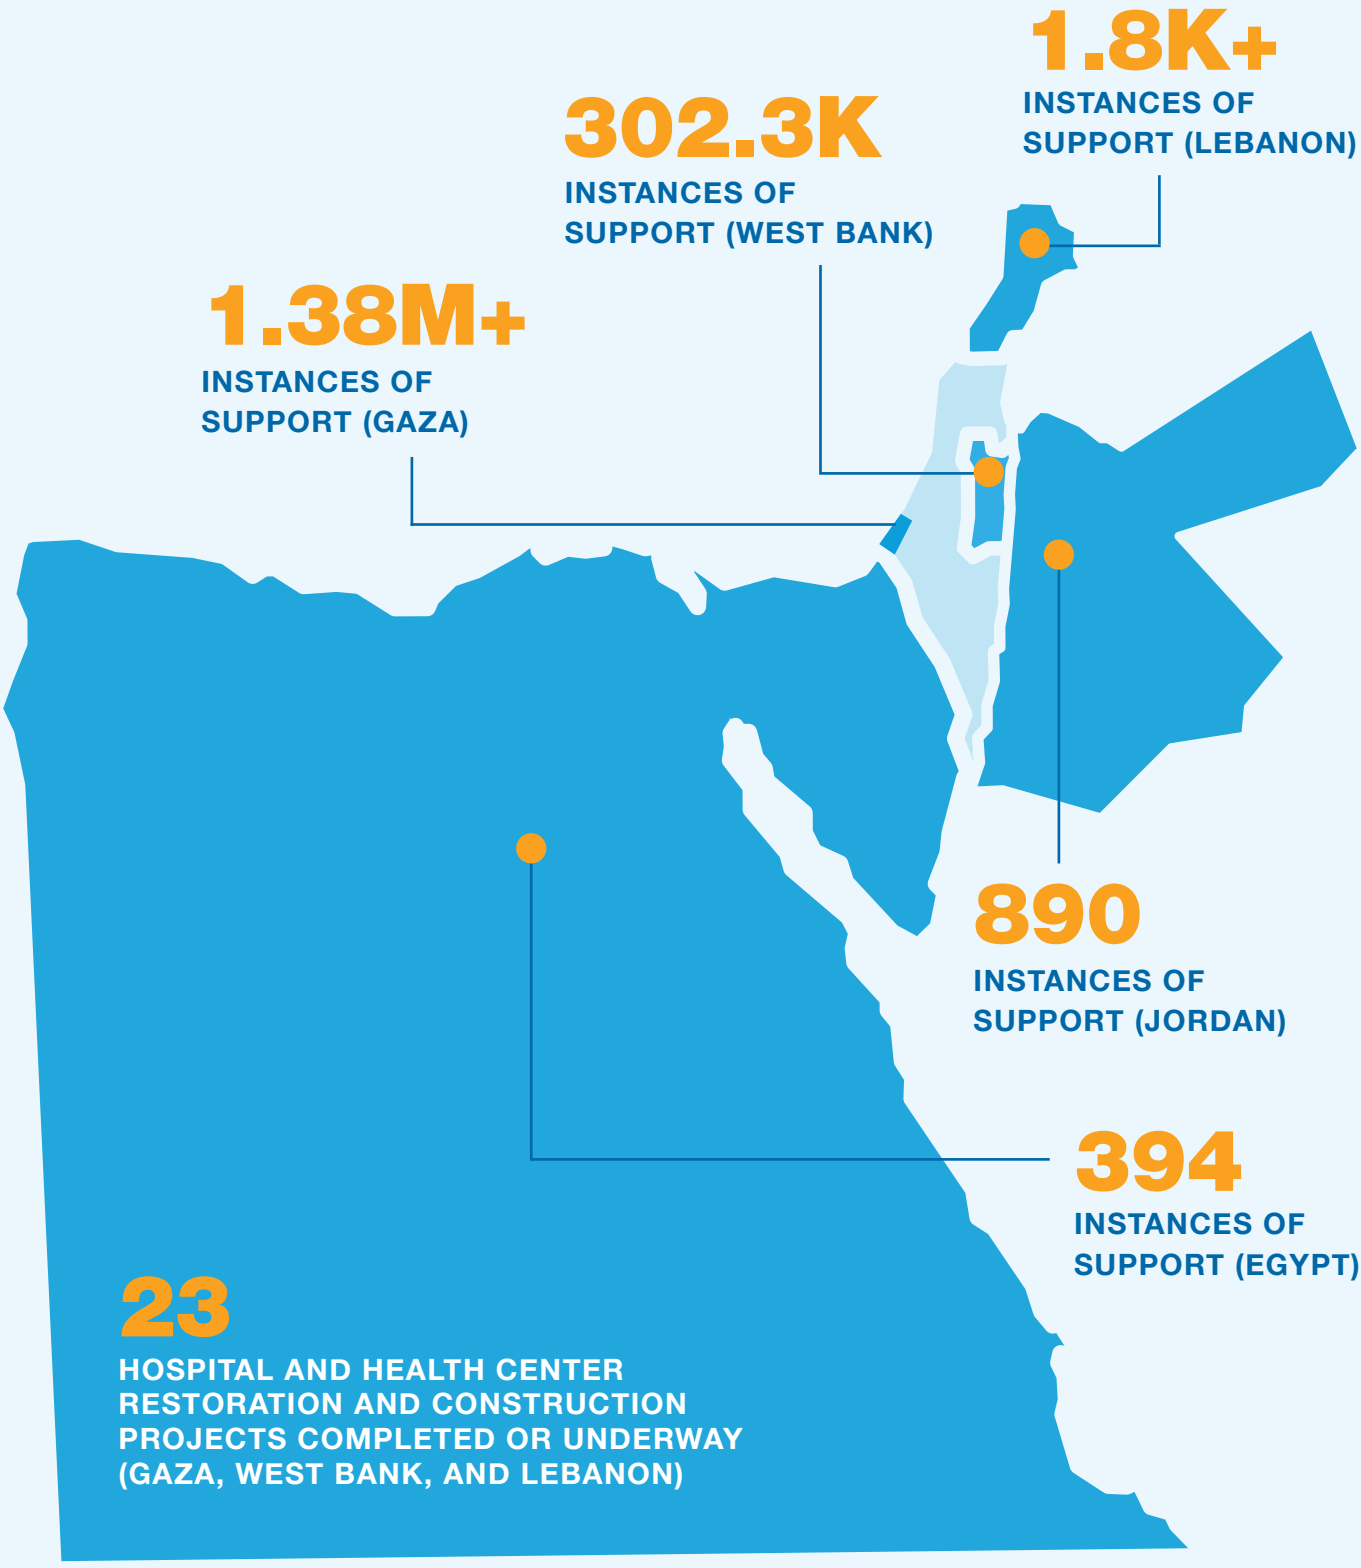

PCRF also invested in hospitals, clinics, healthcare infrastructure, and community-based projects to help sustain essential services amid extraordinary strain, strengthen local healthcare capacity, and keep reliable pathways to care open for children in their own communities.

The following pages bring together the main highlights and numbers that show the reach of your support and the difference it made in the lives of children and families across the region.

Behind every number is a child and a story: a child continuing cancer treatment, a child taking their first steps after surgery, a child receiving support to process loss, or a family finding a measure of stability. And behind these stories is a network of people who chose to care.

Providing Care. Changing Lives. In Gaza

Throughout 2025, children and families in Gaza endured repeated displacement, widespread hunger, limited access to clean water and medical care, and the disruption of essential daily services. Restrictions on the entry of food, medicine, fuel, and other supplies led to severe shortages and rising costs, while many parents lost their homes, livelihoods, and sources of income.

As the crisis grew, PCRF drew on more than three decades of regional experience and trusted local partnerships to mount the largest humanitarian response in its history. PCRF's response model within the Gaza Urgent Relief and Recovery Program evolved from rapid emergency distributions into sustained humanitarian support, helping families meet urgent needs while supporting children's health and well-being as conditions continued to change.

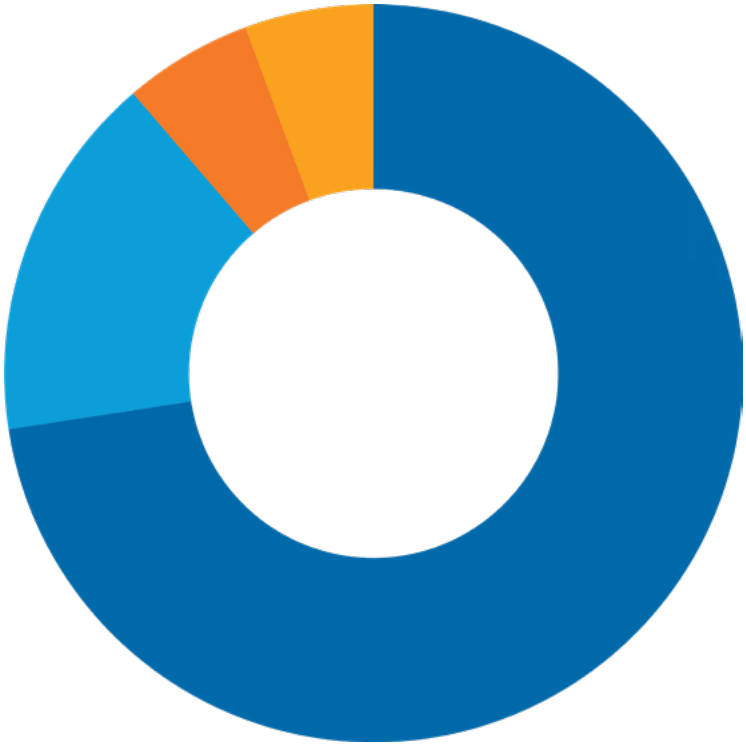

Through three interconnected areas of support, Community Health & Well-Being, Urgent Relief, and Emergency Response Operations, PCRF successfully delivered practical, life-sustaining care to children and families across Gaza throughout the year.

Behind each of these efforts were the coordination, transportation, local knowledge, and careful planning needed to reach families safely and quickly. Together, these operations helped turn your support into a responsive, child-centered lifeline.

Thank you for choosing to stand with them.

MENTAL HEALTH SUPPORT

PCRF also provided children and caregivers with consistent mental health and psychosocial support (MHPSS) amid prolonged stress, loss, recurring displacement, and disruption to daily lives. Support was delivered through community-based teams, medical points, safe spaces, group activities, as well as individual and family counseling sessions. By maintaining consistent support and trusted spaces for care, PCRF helped children manage stress, strengthen coping skills, and maintain connection and stability during an exceptionally difficult year.

11,602 people reached with mental health and psychosocial support

MISSIONS IMPACT

Throughout 2025, 12 emergency medical missions were deployed, bringing international volunteer medical specialists to Gaza to provide critical care. Some traveled thousands of miles to reach these children, while others worked amid serious safety risks. Together with local medical staff who have remained on the frontlines throughout the crisis, these teams performed lifesaving surgeries and treated complex cases of children and adults at key hospitals and medical centers, working with limited resources within a severely strained health system.

MEDICAL SPONSORSHIP

Alongside these missions, PCRF's ongoing Medical Sponsorship Programs continued to help children in Gaza access the care and essential support they needed. This included monthly and one-time assistance with medications, assistive devices such as hearing aids, medical eyeglasses, and assistive shoes, in addition to other critical medical needs. Despite persistent disruptions to care, this support helped improve these children's health and made their daily lives a little less challenging amid the crisis.

ORPHAN SPONSORSHIP

In 2025, the growing number of children in Gaza who lost one or both parents placed new pressures on the families caring for them. Responding to these realities on the ground, PCRF expanded its Orphan Sponsorship Program to reach more children and support their changing needs with food, medications, clothing, and other essentials. PCRF also introduced a new community-based approach for families facing the greatest challenges, bringing together healthcare, reliable food, and safe living conditions for children and their caregivers.

Gaza Team Acknowledgment

The WeCan Team is part of the dedicated network of people making PCRF's work possible across Gaza. Made up of young people who once received care through PCRF programs, many of whom are living with amputations and prosthetic limbs, the team now supports other children facing injury and loss. To the WeCan Team and every member of our Gaza field teams, thank you for turning personal experience into support for others and for your continued dedication to children and families.

Salam survives

Born in October 2023, baby Salam's life began amid a world in crisis. Just days later, airstrikes destroyed the family home and killed everyone inside—except Salam, who was miraculously pulled from the rubble by rescue workers. Thanks to you, Salam's caring grandmother now receives reliable monthly support to meet Salam's nutrition and healthcare needs—giving her the chance to grow up healthy, even smiling.

Supporters like you are bringing hope to children facing far too much loss, far too early in life.

Providing Care. Changing Lives. In the West Bank

Marked by economic hardship, displacement, movement restrictions, security escalations, and limited access to essential services, the West Bank faced growing pressures throughout 2025, shaped by the wider crisis affecting communities across Palestine. For children and families, these challenges made it harder to meet basic needs, reach healthcare, and maintain a sense of stability in their daily lives.

PCRF teams continued responding to these needs, providing more than 300,000 instances of support and delivering care to children and families facing the greatest barriers to care and basic needs.

Even when the West Bank receives less attention in the headlines, delivering care in these circumstances requires strong coordination, trusted local partnerships, and careful measures to protect both beneficiaries and our teams.

Thank you for standing with us in this mission.

HUMANITARIAN AID

PCRF teams remained on the ground, assessing needs and delivering support where it was needed most and when it mattered most. Emergency humanitarian assistance included food parcels, hot meals, medical support, winter and summer supplies, clothing, hygiene kits, and lifesaving nutrition and care packages for newborns, among other essential support, reaching families most affected by the crisis.

MEDICAL AND SURGICAL SPONSORSHIP

Emergency relief was not separate from PCRF's healthcare and well-being support. It was part of an ongoing response to help children access and continue the care they needed. Through the Monthly and One-Time Medical Sponsorship Program, along with the Direct Surgical Sponsorship Program implemented through local healthcare experts and service providers, children received medications, treatment, assistive devices, and surgeries to manage chronic conditions, address urgent health needs, and prevent treatable conditions from becoming more serious. For children and families, this meant fewer interruptions in care, timely treatment, and the support they needed to keep going with daily life.

3,412 children received critically needed medical care, including:

- 2,920 children received one-time medical care
- 492 children received monthly medical care

1,001 children underwent life-changing surgeries locally

MISSIONS IMPACT

When specialized care was not available locally, PCRF brought it to children through 21 international medical missions, treating hundreds of children who had been waiting for care. International specialists worked alongside local healthcare teams, providing complex procedures while sharing their expertise and training with local staff to perform more of these surgeries independently. Each mission therefore reached children in need while also strengthening the skills and capacity that can help more children receive specialized care locally in the future.

SPECIALIZED DEPARTMENTS

For years, PCRF has invested in specialized pediatric care in the West Bank, helping children with serious heart conditions and cancer access the treatment they need closer to home. Through the Pediatric Cardiac Department at the Palestine Medical Complex and the Huda Al Masri Pediatric Cancer Department at Beit Jala Government Hospital, this support continued in 2025, helping keep specialized treatment, surgery, and follow-up care available to children. By supporting these departments and the incredible teams behind them, PCRF is helping children receive critical care today while strengthening local capacity to care for them for years to come.

COMMUNITY NEEDS PROJECTS

Beyond emergency relief and ongoing medical care, PCRF also responded to needs identified within local communities through targeted projects designed around the challenges children and families were facing across the West Bank. From helping children stay connected to education and manage chronic conditions to strengthening local health facilities closer to where families live, these efforts addressed specific gaps in everyday care and support.

Living with a rare developmental condition, Walid was finally able to leave his bed and go outside with his siblings into their loving backyard—a small dream that, for three years, was close in distance yet far beyond his reach.

You continue to make the impossible possible for the world’s children like Walid.

Providing Care. Changing Lives. In Lebanon

Building on a longstanding presence in Lebanon, PCRF teams continued providing critical care to children living in refugee camps and communities facing financial hardship throughout 2025.

Through monthly medical assistance, children with ongoing health needs were able to continue their care, while one-time medical support helped children access medications, medical equipment, and other essential treatment when they needed it. Direct surgical care through local healthcare providers reached more children in Lebanon than anywhere in the region except the West Bank, helping children receive timely procedures without having to travel for treatment. And through nine international medical missions, volunteer specialists brought advanced care that was not available locally, while working alongside local teams to strengthen their skills and capacity. Together, these efforts helped keep essential and specialized care within reach for children despite the challenges around them.

Despite repeated escalations, PCRF's teams and partners continued to make care possible for children who needed it across Lebanon, supported by people like you.

2026 UPDATE

Children in Lebanon continue to face growing hardship, limited access to essential services, displacement, and increasing risks to their health and safety amid renewed regional instability and escalating challenges. Thanks to your support, PCRF is expanding its response to reach children and families in the most-affected communities.

Baby Mariam's hope

Just 24 days old, tiny Mariam faced a life-threatening condition called hydrocephalus (dangerous excess fluid in the brain). Without surgery, she faced brain damage or death—her precious new life at grave risk. Thanks to your incredible support, Mariam underwent successful brain surgery and intensive follow-up care.

Babies like Mariam, as precious as any newborn, represent our world's best hope for the future.

Providing Care. Changing Lives. In Egypt

In 2025, as more Palestinian families sought safety in Egypt due to the ongoing crisis in Gaza, PCRF expanded its support to help families caring for children already enrolled in our programs continue the medical and surgical care they needed after crossing the border.

PCRF also began developing clinical services in Egypt, creating new pathways for children with chronic and complex medical conditions to access specialized treatment, including care that was not available locally. Working with local and international partners, this growing presence helped ensure that children could continue their treatment without interruption and marked the beginning of a broader effort to keep care within reach wherever children needed it.

For children facing displacement, crossing a border did not have to mean leaving their care behind.

Thank you for helping keep that care within reach in Egypt.

Providing Care. Changing Lives. In Jordan

Over the past year, PCRF continued supporting children in Jordan who face financial and other barriers to specialized healthcare, particularly children in refugee camps and underserved communities. Working with local partners and community centers, our team helped identify children in need through referrals and assessments and connect them with the medical care and support they needed. Through 13 international medical missions, monthly and one-time medical support, and surgical care, children received treatment, medications, assistive devices, and other essential support.

Jordan also continued to serve as an important pathway to specialized care for children from Palestine, connecting them with local healthcare partners and referral hospitals, as well as treatment and rehabilitation beyond the region. In 2025, 24 children from Gaza with serious injuries and complex conditions received treatment, rehabilitation, and care in Jordan under the Jordanian Medical Corridor initiative. Together, these efforts helped children access care closer to home or across borders when the treatment they needed was not available where they lived.

Strengthening Healthcare. Building for Tomorrow

In 2025, PCRF and its partners worked tirelessly to strengthen the facilities and systems that communities rely on for care. Across Gaza, the West Bank, and Lebanon, 23 infrastructure projects supported pediatric units, surgical departments, rehabilitation centers, and critical hospital systems.

Every project represented the dedication of local teams, healthcare partners, engineers, supporters, and volunteers working together to keep essential services available today while strengthening local healthcare systems for the generations to come.

“To everyone who helped make this work possible, thank you. Your support is helping sustain care that saves lives today and strengthens the foundations of care for tomorrow.

Corporations and Foundations

Thank you to our corporate and foundation partners, whose vital support in 2025 made it possible to deliver humanitarian assistance, specialized healthcare, and long-term investments in stronger health systems across the region. Together, we reached more children with the lifesaving care and support they needed. We deeply appreciate your leadership and continued partnership.

Strategic Engagement Partners

Thank you to the artists, storytellers, and public voices who have used their platforms to bring attention to the needs of Palestinian children. Your courage and conviction have helped us reach millions with one message: every child deserves the chance to live, heal, and thrive. By lending your voice to theirs, you have turned awareness into action and compassion into care. We are honored to stand alongside you.

Events and Community Engagement

Thank you to our dedicated chapter members and volunteers, whose generosity of time, talent, and compassion inspires others to stand beside children. Through your events, outreach, and advocacy, you help build the community of support that makes lifesaving healthcare, humanitarian assistance, and healthier futures possible.

In 2025, our Chapters organized over 70 creative events and initiatives, from cultural and sporting events to iftars, gala dinners, educational panels, and family and community gatherings. These events help enable PCRF to deliver vital relief on the ground, bringing hope to tens of thousands of children annually across the Middle East.

PCRF University Series: Harvard's "Healing Gaza's Children Abroad"

As the first in a planned series of PCRF-sponsored medical school symposiums, we helped amplify the voices of children from Gaza at Harvard Medical School's "Healing Gaza's Children Abroad," hosted by the FXB Center for Health and Human Rights and the Student Alliance for Health Equity in Palestine. PCRF leadership representatives joined leading physicians and global advocates, including Dr. Joan K. DeCelie-Germana and Dr. Eric Cioè-Peña of Northwell Health, and Dr. Sami H. Tuffaha of Johns Hopkins Hospital.

The children themselves were among the evening's most important voices. Fadi, 7, Ayham, 13, Mutassembelah, 17, and Nada, 18, shared their experiences of injury, displacement, lengthy treatment journeys, loss, and survival after being evacuated from Gaza for medical care.

To everyone who joined us at Harvard, thank you—for honoring Gaza's children, valuing their voices and committing to healing and hope.

> "Helping Nada save her leg and regain function has been extremely rewarding. I appreciate the work that PCRF did to make it possible."

JUNE 2025

Ms. Rachel and Rahaf

An incredible educator, advocate, and YouTube content creator committed to helping the world's children learn and thrive, Ms. Rachel is our newest global ambassador! Last spring, Ms. Rachel featured little Rahaf, a Palestinian child refugee from Gaza on the "Friendship" episode of her YouTube show, where they played and danced together—activities all the more incredible because Rahaf's life and irrepressible spirit were nearly lost when a bomb struck her family's home. (Read more about Rahaf's story on page 22 of this report.)

Thank you, Ms. Rachel, for your friendship and special focus on Palestine's precious children. We are forever grateful!

> "I deeply care for all children... I think part of why people respond to the show is they see that care—I see every child as I see my own."

JULY 2025

Solidarity in Japan

Last summer, PCRF marked our first and incredibly inspiring visit to Japan. We co-hosted two local events, with partners Friends of Palestine-Kobe, in Osaka, and Kifu for Palestine, in Tokyo, fostering a growing solidarity of Japan's people and Palestine's children in crisis.

We are so honored to begin this meaningful meeting of humanity, heart-to-heart, across countries and cultures.

SEPTEMBER 2025

"Together for Palestine (T4P)"

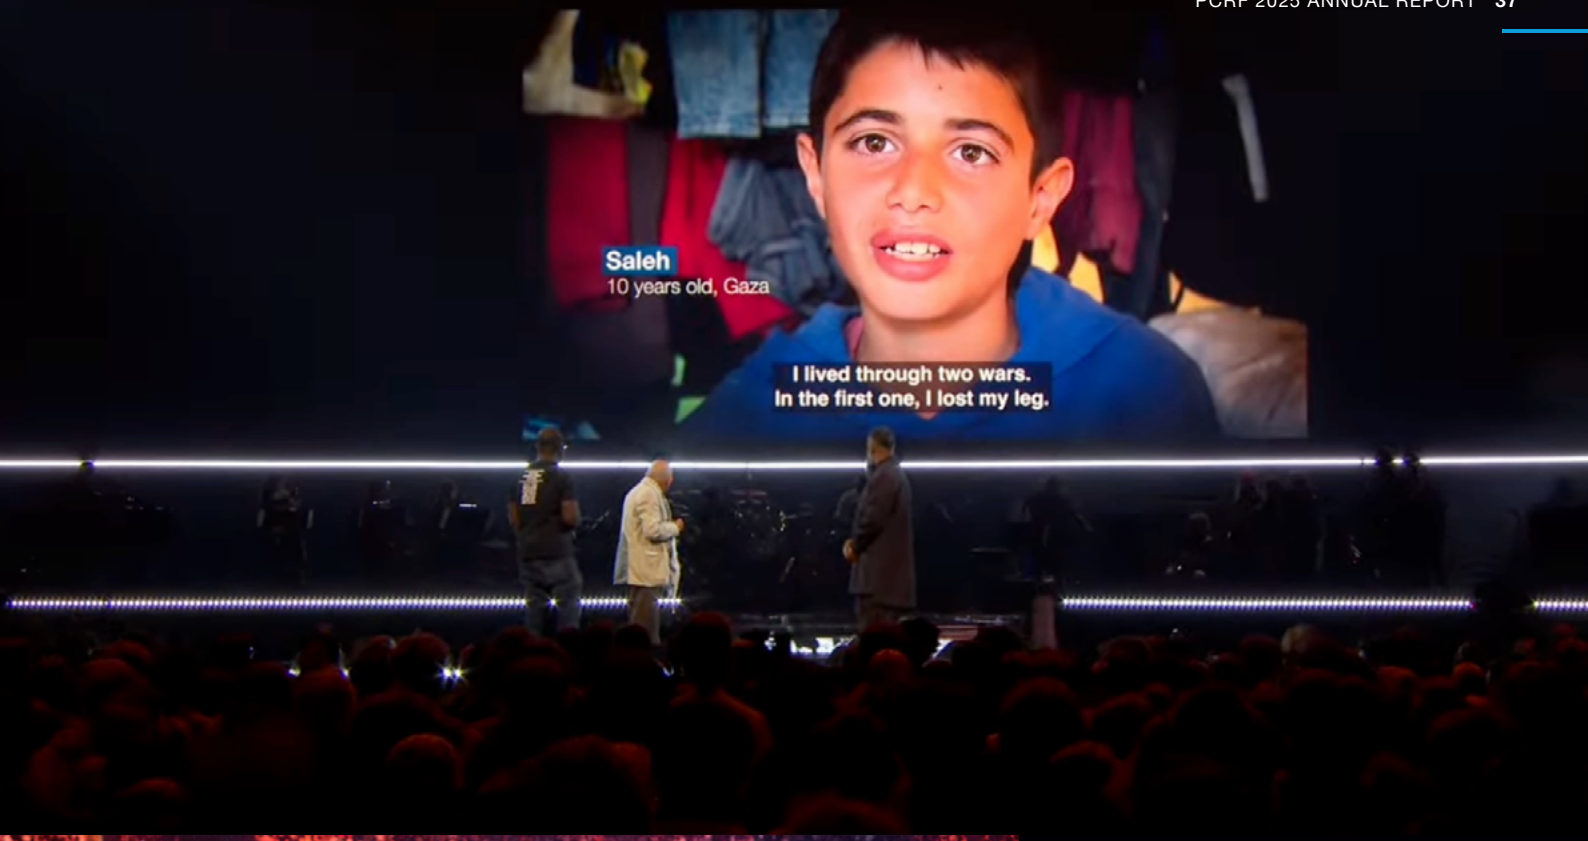

A momentous, deeply moving event, "Together for Palestine (T4P)," held on September 17, 2025, at London's iconic OVO Arena Wembley, featured a star-studded night of entertainment and solidarity – celebrating Palestinian culture, while drawing urgent attention to the unfolding humanitarian crisis.

Organized by British musician Brian Eno, the event featured musicians, artists, actors and activists from across the globe, drawing a sold-out crowd. Global stars included: Damon Albarn, Bastille, James Blake, Eric Cantona, Benedict Cumberbatch, Paloma Faith, Richard Gere, Hot Chip, Jamie xx, Guy Pearce, PinkPantheress, Florence Pugh, Laura Whitmore, and Ramy Youssef, alongside Palestinian artists Sama' Abdulhadi, Nai Barghouti, Elyanna, and Saint Levant, plus UN voices Francesca Albanese and journalist Mehdi Hasan. The amazing stage design was a collaboration between renowned artist and designer Es Devlin and Gazan painter Malak Mattar.

PCRF was honored to stand as one of three Palestinian-led organizations representing our homeland and benefitting from event proceeds. We thank the T4P team and every artist, organizer, partner, and attendee who came together to support our cause—proving that Palestine's people are not alone.

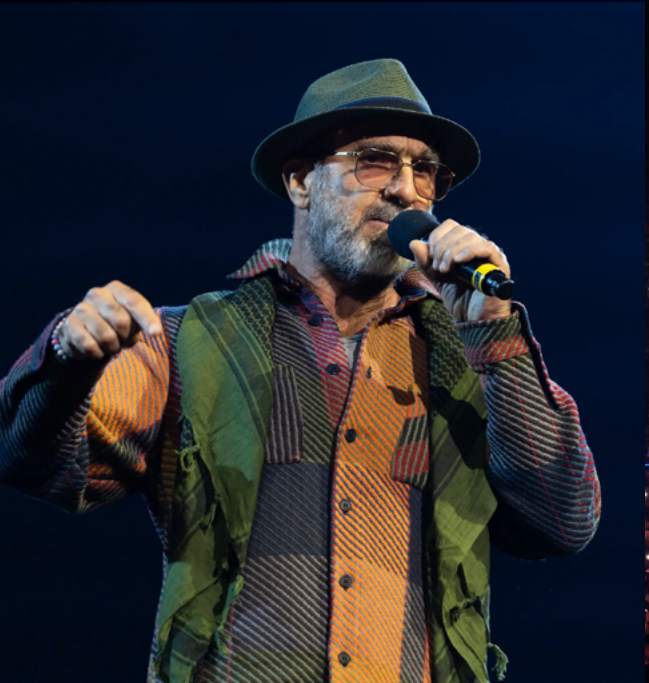

Live-streamed on YouTube, the event was also covered by major news outlets around the world.

> "Palestine's people are not alone, and humanity will always rise above brutality."

Impact That Continues

TOGETHER, we can help ensure more children in Gaza, the West Bank, Lebanon, and the wider Levant have the opportunity to grow up healthy and live with the dignity and hope every child deserves. Please continue to:

GIVE

Giving to PCRF gives children living in some of the world's most perilous places what every child, everywhere, deserves – the chance to grow up healthy, within strong, supportive communities.

SPONSOR

Sponsoring a child or community on a monthly basis provides a reliable source of health care services and supplies to those in greatest need. You can also choose a one-time sponsorship.

VOLUNTEER

Volunteering as a health care professional on a global medical mission will not only profoundly change children's lives – it will likely change yours, too. We also welcome non-medical volunteers.

ENGAGE

Getting involved turns your compassion into powerful action for children – for example, join a local PCRF chapter or student club, even start your own fundraiser. The engagement possibilities are unending.

PARTNER

Partnering with PCRF allows brands and organizations to turn their values into meaningful action for children. Through cause marketing campaigns and strategic partnerships, our partners help amplify our mission and bring vital care to children who need it most.

INFLUENCE

Unleash your social media savvy with authentic posts about your PCRF support. Engage with our content, even create your own: What's happening? Why care? How every child matters to the world we all share?
